In Indiana, there have been cases of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever which is caused by ticks. Lyme disease cases are also very high. The State Department of Health Advisory Committee is working to ensure we have the surveillance system in place to identify particular ticks and bacteria. Because so many cases have been rare and they are not seen often the cases are misdiagnosed which can cause life-threatening consequences. An educational program will be available for providers in the state of Indiana to better educate them on Lyme disease and the type of test to order to make the best diagnosis. The Health Department can assist with all types of mosquito issues. Dr. Caine stated we may be the only metropolitan county or city to have our syringe exchange unanimously approved in the country.
